New American

Written by D. Michael DeRidder on January 15, 2024

Houthis Strike U.S.-owned Commercial Ship

U.S. Central Command (CENTCOM) announced Houthis attacked a U.S.-owned bulk carrier Gibraltar Eagle with an antiship cruise missile in the Gulf of Aden today. The ship, flying the Marshall Islands flag, is owned by Stamford, Connecticut, based Eagle Bulk Shipping and was carrying steel products.

CENTCOM attributed the attack to Houthis in a post on X, and stated the strike did not seriously damage the ship: "The ship has reported no injuries or significant damage and is continuing its journey."

AP Images Houthi fighters in Yemen

The strike on the ship today comes after a U.S. fighter aircraft shot down an anti-ship cruise missile yesterday. The Houthi-fired missile targeted U.S. destroyer USS Laboon and was intercepted midair near Hodeidah, Yemen.

Subscribe to the New American

Get exclusive digital access to the most informative, non-partisan truthful news source for patriotic Americans!

Discover a refreshing blend of time-honored values, principles and insightful perspectives within the pages of "The New American" magazine. Delve into a world where tradition is the foundation, and exploration knows no bounds.

From politics and finance to foreign affairs, environment, culture, and technology, we bring you an unparalleled array of topics that matter most.

Subscribe

What's Included?

24 Issues Per Year Optional Print Edition Digital Edition Access Exclusive Subscriber Content Audio provided for all articles Unlimited access to past issues Coming Soon! Ad FREE 60-Day money back guarantee! Cancel anytime.