Spiritual Warfare: Why the Left Wants You Surrounded by Ugliness

“For as he thinketh in his heart, so is he.”

So wrote the wise King Solomon in the Book of Proverbs.

This is a powerful spiritual principle that every man should understand well, both in his personal capacity as a practicing Christian and as a citizen striving to create a thriving civilization.

The close relationship between the exterior and the interior world — between one’s environment and one’s mind — is one that the wise have written about extensively throughout history. It’s in the Bible, as seen above. Fields as diverse as occultism and modern psychology recognize that influence between the internal and external is not a one-way street.

Ultimately, it is the internal that determines the external. “As above, so below, as within, so without,” wrote the legendary mystic Hermes Trismegistus.

A man who believes himself successful and puts in the corresponding work will attract to him the means, opportunities, resources, and ideas to achieve his goals and build the wealth he knows himself to be deserving of.

A man who believes himself a victim will never have any shortage of persecutors and reasons for his perpetual life failures.

Unlike animals, we as human beings have the freedom to consciously change our interior and thereby change our exterior world. We are capable of changing our own beliefs, paradigms, feelings, and patterns of behavior. We do this by controlling our thoughts, modifying our habits, changing the type of entertainment we expose ourselves to, etc.

But most people in this world do not take advantage of our inherent ability to be the masters of our own destiny. Through ignorance and laziness, most people are perfectly comfortable allowing their beliefs, and thus the direction of their lives, to be shaped by external forces. In other words, they place their fate at the mercy of others.

The satanic, globalist cabal understands all of these truths to perfection. They are thoroughly acquainted with the principles of psychology, human nature, spirituality, and occultism — and leverage their knowledge to accumulate power for themselves, to the detriment of the rest of humanity.

This brings us to the question raised by the title of this article: Why does the political Left, which is one arm of the oligarchs, so desperately want to impose ugliness on society?

Just take a brief glance at the world around us and you'll realize there's no hyperbole in this statement.

Look at the arts. The beautiful paintings and sculptures inspiring men and women to greatness that once were the hallmark of Western art have been replaced by the banality and unoriginality of modern art. The transcendent beauty of classical music has given way to the base vocalization of hooliganism in genres such as rap.

Look at cities. Once, architectural trends such as gothic and classical resulted in beautiful cities that propagated civilization, elevation and refinement in the hearts of the men and women that walked through and lived in them. Now, the architectural equivalent of fast food is the norm, creating boring-looking communities that only inspire mediocrity.

Furthermore, the growth of hood culture, crime, lawlessness, littering, homelessness, and other urban ills promoted by the Democratic Party have only made cities that much more ugly.

Just look at how St. Louis has devolved within a century:

The same has happened to Chicago. The city is now the textbook example of a Democrat hellhole. But this wasn't always the case.

And, of course, there's the constant forcing of ugliness upon us in the media, with the overlords telling us we have to find obese people and transgenders attractive.

And, as I previously wrote, our language itself has been degraded through its simplification and by the normalization of foul language.

You have to realize, for the globalist oligarchs, this ugliness push is another instance of "for thee but not for me" — just as they try to disarm us while having armed guards and force mass migration on us while living in gated communities.

These people live in beautifully designed mansions with lush private gardens. Their homes are adorned with coveted works of fine art. They spend their free time jet-setting to regal galas, opera performances, exclusive equestrian events, etc.

It is not they, but you and I — the peasants — that they want living under their "ugly is the new beautiful" standards.

They do this because they want to keep us weak and easy to control. The last thing any elites want is for more elites to arise who will challenge their dominion.

The American War of Independence was made possible by gentry such as Washington, Jefferson, Adams, and Franklin — men of wealth, class, education, and culture who could provide the caliber of leadership necessary to make the independence movement successful.

The oligarchs fear another such uprising. So they constantly assault our senses with ugliness in order to deteriorate our souls, keeping us in a state of serfdom rather than a state of power.
