Beating the United Nations

What can be said about the United Nations? Perhaps what could best be said was written by Robert Welch, founder of The John Birch Society. In the May 1960 Bulletin, he wrote of the UN, “The actual organization is hopelessly venal, immoral, and degraded at every level. It also shows — what many of us have long suspected — that the driving force behind every act and every decision of importance is a determination to help the Communists and harm their enemies.”

Scratch a crisis long enough, and you’re bound to hit the UN or one of its many affiliates. The steady growth of the organization is a testament to those who continue to give it credibility.

Let’s make this absolutely simple: The concept of government in the “United States” is encapsulated in the Declaration of Independence — the purpose of government is to protect our God-given rights, and those united together are “Free and Independent States.” The declaration absolved all allegiance to a foreign nation, and dissolved all political connections to it.

Yet, what have the American people allowed to happen? They have allowed Congress to yoke the country to the United Nations, while increasing allegiance to its anti-American agenda and establishing layer upon layer of political connections.

The UN will continue eroding the sovereignty of member countries until the fateful day when the world looks to that globalist organization for the final say in government.

That is the day the New World Order will be official.

Every dollar we give to the UN — and every law, rule, or regulation created to support the UN agenda — is another nail in the coffin of American sovereignty.

The sustainable development goals of the UN’s Agenda 2030 will ensure that every aspect of your life is controlled by government. The current federal overreach under President Biden will seem amateurish compared to the tyranny that will come from the UN.

What to do? Be vigilant! Work together at the local, county, state, and federal levels. Keep up to date with local government meetings, and watch for Agenda 21/2030 initiatives being introduced or discussed. Use our Agenda 21 and Agenda 2030 materials at ShopJBS.org to inform local elected officials of the potential dangers of these UN programs.

Locally organize with fellow concerned residents to help inform other voters. Recruit others from these voters to help you distribute literature and create pressure on elected officials to protect the community from the UN’s initiatives.

Work together also at the county and state levels to educate legislators. Regularly visit their offices and help their aides understand the dangers of the UN. Keep up the pressure by having different constituents, two at a time, visit legislators each week, if possible. If you have fewer recruits initially, perhaps send the same two people monthly.

Make regular phone calls and send regular emails to keep the issue at the forefront with legislators. This is especially effective if many people do this in the same district.

Get Congress to pass the DEFUND Act to officially get the United States out of the UN and the UN out of the United States.

The legislative alert tool at JBS.org helps to make it easy to connect with legislators. Find contact information at JBS.org/officeholders. When available, this includes email, phone, and links to social media accounts. We have pre-written and customizable emails you can send them, too. Check those out at JBS.org/alerts.

You can also host a speech to call attention to the UN's agenda. Go to Freedom's Voices, the JBS speakers bureau (JBS.org/speakers), for a list of available speakers.

Don't worry if all of this sounds daunting — joining The John Birch Society will put you in touch with others who are already doing it in your area and who can help get you up to speed and working to Get US Out! Visit JBS.org.
