Forced Vaccinations: Next on the Regime's Agenda?

Frances Kelsey died six years ago at 101. A physician and pharmacologist who reviewed new drugs for the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, Kelsey saved untold thousands of children from horrible birth defects. In 1960, she blocked the sale of poorly tested thalidomide in the United States. European and African nations had approved the morning-sickness drug with the now-famous result: babies with malformed or missing arms and legs, along with eye and facial deformities and brain damage. Most Americans don't know or remember Kelsey, but those of a certain age remember the heart-rending pictures and films of those infants and children.

Government officials the world over seem determined to repeat the mistake. They are pushing, and in some cases mandating, mass inoculation with the experimental China Virus vaccines. Terrified of the lab-made pathogen because of the leftist media's 24-7 megaphone, the sheeple have complied.

In May, President Biden said the vaccinated would no longer be required to wear a mask. Now, because of breakthrough cases and the so-called Delta Variant, the Centers for Disease Control says the vaccinated should wear masks inside public places if they live in virus "hot spots." Biden has asked federal attorneys whether he can force Americans to get the jab.

Constitutionally, the answer is no. But consider what Biden asked: Do I have the power to stick a needle in the arm of every man, woman, and child in the country?

No Jab, No Mask, No Service

Even if Biden decides he can't mandate vaccinations directly, he can still easily persuade power-hungry blue- and even red-state governors to lock down the economy again until all Americans are vaccinated. Governors could follow a "recommendation" from the Centers for Disease Control — whose leftist director openly discusses vaccine passports — and require all businesses to impose masking for those who cannot prove they are vaccinated. New York Mayor Bill de Blasio has ordered vaccine proof for gyms, restaurants, and other public places. New York Governor Andrew Cuomo has mandated vaccines for state employees. Most businesses implore the unvaccinated to wear a mask, but do not inquire. Don't be surprised when governors crack down.

"We have to knock on those doors, and we have to convince people, and put them in a car and drive them and get that vaccine in their arm," averred the megalomaniac Cuomo. "That is the mission."

Cuomo is a "small man in search of a balcony," as the late columnist Jimmy Breslin wrote of Rudy Giuliani, but that aside, one can imagine what will happen to someone who refuses to hop into Cuomo's car.

How Long Behind a Mask?

We need a Frances Kelsey to blow the whistle on these experimental vaccines, most notably those that monkey with a person's RNA. Thousands of deaths have been reported — far exceeding the average annual reported deaths caused by all other vaccines combined. The vaccinated are contracting and dying with the virus. NBC News has reported more than 125,000 breakthrough cases across 38 states. However low the risk of an adverse reaction, if the vaccines wear off and boosters are needed after only six months, the obvious observation is that they might not be as effective as advertised.

But practical problems can be resolved and pale next to what's really at stake.

"Make no mistake," GOP House Minority Leader Kevin McCarthy of California tweeted after the U.S. Capitol physician reinstated a mask mandate for a largely vaccinated Congress. "The threat of bringing masks back is not a decision based on science, but a decision conjured up by liberal government officials who want to continue to live in a perpetual pandemic state."

That's right.

Vaccine mandates, or "passports" to avoid renewed mask mandates and lockdowns, are just the beginning. CDC's guidance suggests that public officials will mandate masking and lockdowns even if everyone is vaccinated. Thus, the "pandemic" will never end, and we will be forever stuck in the "new normal," which will justify a massive fortification of the government's anarcho-tyrannical power to code and trace our activities, then meddle in and possibly micromanage our most routine activities for the sake of our "health."

As others have observed, it's one thing to quarantine those with a deadly contagious disease, a just and sensible public health measure. But forcing the healthy — including mostly unaffected children — to wear masks and quarantine, or receive experimental vaccines, arrogates authority of a different order. It usurps an individual's most basic rights, not least the right to be left alone and make health decisions.

It's too late to find another Frances Kelsey. It's not too late to fight this totalitarian power grab.
