International Crisis Summit Fights for Health Freedom

While CPAC was making headlines and getting the attention of American conservatives, the Fifth International Crisis Summit (ICS5, formerly the International Covid Summit) was taking place at the same venue as the larger conference. Founded as a safe haven for physicians, lawyers, and other professionals who had been “canceled” or otherwise persecuted for questioning the official Covid-19 narrative and policies, the summit has now garnered the attention of decision-makers across the globe, with robust participation from members of the European Parliament and national legislators.

Initially focused on sharing data, research, and scientific discussions aimed at finding effective Covid treatments, ICS now aims to develop an action plan to counter the globalist agenda and uphold scientific integrity. According to the event organizers, the primary threat to scientific and medical freedom is posed by the UN and its “healthcare” arm, the World Health Organization (WHO).

Speaking with The New American, Dr. Robert Malone, who helped organize the summit, elaborated, “We’re trying to go a little broader and focus more on public policy, the World Health Organization, the International Health Regulations, and the upcoming Pandemic Health Treaty. What does that really mean? We have more involvement from policymakers and politicians.” He added, “This time we have much more emphasis on the cognitive warfare and cyber aspects, the censorship of public policy, and on what really needs to be done going forward.” Malone further underscored that propaganda and psychological warfare were being used against Americans by the “new industry that is integrated with the government, public-private partnerships, and academia.”

Dr. Meryl Nass, the founder of the organization DoorToFreedom.org, an informational resource that collects all information on the WHO’s pandemic documents ostensibly aimed at improving global responses to disease outbreaks, told The New American that, if enacted, the WHO pandemic agreements would essentially destroy national sovereignty. “The WHO is being used by basically a cabal of globalists in an attempt to have a soft coup and take over much of global governance through the concept of health and pandemics. The idea is to get us frightened of pandemics, so frightened that basically we will do whatever they want.” She urged everyday people to bear in mind that the globalists are outnumbered, and all of us must simply refuse to comply with any future dictates. Another important component to preserving freedom, said the doctor, is disseminating information about the true intent of the documents, which Nass described as a part of the now-infamous Great Reset, by which global elites seek to exert universal control over all aspects of individuals’ lives, beginning with their dietary habits and the information they access, and extending to their finances, movement, and lifestyle choices.

Attendees reported that, fortunately, there is a growing awareness among the public regarding the threats to sovereignty, freedom, and even physical safety posed by globalist policies. Consequently, there has been a rise in the appeal of conservative parties in Europe, particularly those that have opposed Covid mandates, illegal immigration, and regulatory measures related to “climate change” that are prevalent in the EU. Speaking with The New American, Cristian Terheş, a member of the European Parliament, suggested that the bloc is likely to be strengthened with pro-sovereignty lawmakers during the June parliamentary elections.

After the event, on February 26, many speakers from ICS5 participated in a roundtable discussion led by Senator Ron Johnson (R-Wis.). The discussion was titled “Federal Health Agencies and the COVID Cartel: What Are They Hiding?” and was aimed at “[exposing] the truth about how the COVID Cartel — federal health agencies, Big Pharma, legacy media, and Big Tech — engaged in censorship and coverups,” focusing also on “the failures and corruption of the global elite and their institutions.”
