Quick Quotes

Vice President Omits Portions of Declaration of Independence in Her Pro-abortion Speech

Kamala Harris (Gage Skidmore)

“So we are here together because we collectively believe and know America is a promise.... It is a promise of freedom and liberty — not for some, but for all. A promise we made in the Declaration of Independence that we are each endowed with the right to liberty and pursuit of happiness.”

Speaking about the 50th anniversary of the now-overruled Roe v. Wade decision at a pro-abortion rally in Tallahassee, Florida, on January 22, Vice President Kamala Harris omitted any mention of the document's acknowledgment of a “Creator” and of the right to “Life.” Her deliberate avoidance of those two portions of the Declaration was noted by reporter Micaiah Bilger and broadcast at Fox News.

WEF Gathering Predicts U.S. Will Soon Create Laws Targeting Hate Speech

“Illegal hate speech, which you will have soon in the U.S. I think that [there are strong reasons] why we have this in criminal law.”

During a panel at the January 2023 gathering of the World Economic Forum, Vice President of the European Commission Vera Jourova expressed her expectation that the United States would soon copy such laws already in existence in several European nations. Hosted by former CNN standout Brian Stelter, the panel also included U.S. Congressman Seth Moulton (D-Mass.) and New York Times Chairman Arthur Gregg Sulzberger. Discussing the newspaper he oversees, Sulzberger opined that overall hate-content disinformation is “the most existential” challenge to be dealt with.

Border Patrol Union Officially Calls for the Firing of Kamala

“If you were given a job two years ago with the explicit goal of reducing illegal immigration, and then you sit around and do nothing while illegal immigration explodes to levels never seen before, you should be fired and replaced. Period.”

In a no-holds-barred statement, the Border Patrol labor union additionally targeted President Joe Biden, whom they consider a foe. The leaders of the union are finding grudging support for their stand even from mayors of large northern U.S. cities where border-crossers are being sent by aggrieved and frustrated elected officials in border states.

U.S. Adds More Red Ink Instead of Dealing With Enormous National Debt

“The United States paid $475 billion in interest on its debts last fiscal year, which ran through September. That was a record, and it will soon be broken. In the first quarter of this fiscal year, the government’s bill for interest was $210 billion. There seems to be little desire to break the pattern of borrowing for an array of unconstitutional programs.”

Binyamin Appelbaum, the lead writer on economics and business for The New York Times, notes that escalating indebtedness enables wealthy investors who have money to spend to purchase government-issued bonds and reap the benefits of interest they thereby receive. There’s no pressure to stop such an ongoing process.

Taiwan’s Top Diplomat in U.S. Not Permitted to Hold Ambassadorial Ranking

“The Taiwanese resent not only being bullied, we resent being told that we cannot have any friends.”

Referring to herself as “legally unofficial,” Taiwan’s Bi-khim Hsiao is still considered to be among the most influential ambassadors in Washington. She works from a grand estate in D.C., but cannot live there. And she knows that simply flying a Taiwanese flag would be considered a serious diplomatic incident.
