Taking Action: Time to Get Out of WHO!

While the world continues to wrestle with the Russian war against Ukraine and sees the real possibility of China absorbing Taiwan, building the New World Order is not only a topic for President Biden, but is being openly discussed in the U.S. Senate.

According to Politico, U.S. Senator Marco Rubio of Florida (65 percent lifetime Freedom Index score) spoke at an early February Foreign Relations hearing, seemingly against continuing to build the New World Order. He said, “At the end of the Cold War ... the gamble at the time was if we create this international economic order led by the U.S. and the West built on the global commitment to free trade, the notion [was] that trade and commerce would bind nations together ... and it would lead to more wealth and prosperity, that it would lead to democracy and freedom — domestic changes in many countries — and it would ultimately ensure peace. Our foreign policy has been built around that.... Even though it’s an economic theory it basically has been what we’ve built our foreign policy on.”

“I think it’s fair to say that gamble failed,” Rubio concluded, calling China and Russia “more authoritarian” and “more violent” than at the end of the Cold War. “And we’re now entering a new era.”

The Epoch Times reported that “the Biden administration is preparing to sign up the United States to a ‘legally binding’ accord with the World Health Organization (WHO) that would give this Geneva-based UN subsidiary the authority to dictate America’s policies during a pandemic. Once a health emergency is declared, all signatories, including the United States, would submit to the authority of the WHO regarding treatments, government regulations such as lockdowns and vaccine mandates, global supply chains, and monitoring and surveillance of populations.”

Allowing an international organization to have authority over anything in America is anti-American, unconstitutional, and illegal. If this power grab is successful, then it will be just another step closer to closing the doors on American sovereignty forever. If you thought our government’s response to Covid was bad, then just wait until the communists and dictators of the United Nations are barking orders to Americans. There’s not enough room in this column to list all that is wrong with this scenario. Rather, if we agree that this is a huge problem for American sovereignty, then let’s focus on preventing it.

Our Founding Fathers provided many levels of protection for our God-given rights. These include the many layers of government, from local to federal, with various checks and balances. However, the ultimate protector of rights is the American people. The Founders expected those who elected their representatives to educate themselves and be engaged in the civic process.

Here's a key question: Who will enforce the WHO's edicts? Considering what the American people know now about the asinine lockdowns and government's self-destructive guidelines, there's not much of a chance that the majority of Americans will once again fall into lockstep. We predict that many more Americans, law-enforcement officers, business owners, and elected officials will nullify anything coming from the WHO, the federal government, and any entity claiming authority — which is exactly what they should do.

The Founding Fathers expected us to nullify anything that is unconstitutional. If the government hasn't been allocated power over a certain issue, it has no business legislating on it. In other words, don't follow its edicts or recognize its "authority." The idea is that lesser magistrates can protect those they serve from government tyranny by refusing to enforce said tyranny. Nullification is what helped bring immediate relief to many Americans during Covid lockdowns, and it can be utilized to help deter international "authorities."

A longer-term solution is to follow the Founders' advice of avoiding entangling alliances and to defund and get out of the WHO and the United Nations. Then, help educate Americans on the issues that matter and how constitutional tools can be utilized to restore rights, liberties, and freedoms.
