

Quick Quotes

Britain's Mr. Brexit Stumps for Trump at a Mississippi Rally

"There are millions of ordinary Americans who have been let down, who feel the political class in Washington is detached from them, who feel so many of their representatives are politically correct parts of the liberal media elite. But you can beat the commentators; you can beat Washington."

The leader of Britain's anti-European Union campaign, Nigel Farage, gave a rousing message to Trump supporters as Donald Trump stood close by cheering him on.

Loud Noises Spur Crowds to Panic

"I would say that we are in the grip of a moral panic. The constant perception of being vulnerable to mass violence has seeped into our collective consciousness."

An expert in the field of global studies and psychology, Georgia State University Professor John Horgan also specializes in the study of terrorism. He expressed his view after a false alarm created a genuine panic at the Los Angeles International Airport.

Muslim Females Harassed for Wearing Full-body Swimsuits

"How is it possible that in a 'modern' world, tanning naked is accepted but keeping your clothes on at the beach is not?"

Aspiring journalist Dina Sronji is a university student in Lebbeke, Belgium. Not a Muslim herself, she finds the campaign against Muslim women wearing extra-modest beachwear ridiculous.

Philippine President Insults Obama

"I am a president of a sovereign state and we have long ceased to be a colony. I do not have any master except the Filipino people, nobody but nobody. Putang ina, I will swear to you at that forum."

Angered over threats that Obama would chastise him over human rights issues, President Rodrigo Duterte used the Tagalog phrase for "son of a bh" when referring to the U.S. leader. Obama cancelled a planned meeting with the president of the Philippines.

Peace in Libya Far From Possible at Present

"By our count, there are 40 militias and gangs in Tripoli. The city is a barrel bomb waiting to drop. We don't think anyone can control these forces."

A spokesman for the Libyan military based in the eastern portion of the country, Ahmed el-Mesmari claims these groups are "anarchists and extremists who are closer to Al Qaeda than to anyone else."

Leading Neoconservative Threatens to Vacate His Home Country

"It makes me want to move to Canada."

Disgusted with both Hillary Clinton and Donald Trump, Senator Lindsey Graham (R-S.C.) issued a tongue-in-cheek critique. He came in 15th in the GOP's primary contests that eventually chose Donald Trump.

Clinton Insults Half of Trump's Supporters — or 25 Percent of the Electorate

"You could put half of Trump's supporters into what I call the basket of deplorables. Right? The racist, sexist, homophobic, xenophobic, Islamaphobic — you name it.... And unfortunately there are people like that. And he has lifted them up."

The Democratic Party nominee, Hillary Clinton, hasn't apologized for her insult. Instead, she has expressed "regret" for what she said. That's like a child who got caught eating all the candy Mom bought for the family — he "regrets" that he got caught.
