Clothing Made in America? Forget it!

“About 97 percent of clothing sold in the United States is imported, according to the American Apparel & Footwear Association.”

While reporting the existence of a small apparel manufacturing facility in Maryland, the Washington Post pointed to the staggering amount of imports, a situation that has existed for “a generation.”

New U.S. Ambassador to UN Looks for Progress at the World Body

“Our goal with the administration is to show value at the UN, and the way we’ll show value is to show our strength, show our voice, have the backs of our allies, and make sure our allies have our backs as well.”

President Trump’s hint during the campaign that he might withdraw the United States from the world body is obviously not the goal of former South Carolina Governor Nikki Haley in her new post at the UN.

Right-wing French Presidential Candidate Gaining Popularity

“The entire world — it’s true for Brexit, it’s true for Mr. Trump — is becoming conscious of what we’ve been saying for years.”

For France, Marine Le Pen wants no more membership in NATO, no more European currency, no more European Union or open borders, and no more second chances for foreigners under surveillance because of suspicions that they are potential terrorists. France’s first round of voting for president will take place on April 23.

Former Education Secretary Speaks Up for His Successor

“Agree or disagree with Betsy DeVos on any issue, but let’s all agree that she really needs to be in the public schools. Please let her in.”

After DeVos was blocked from entering a public middle school by protesters, Arne Duncan spoke out in her behalf. DeVos eventually was escorted into the school. Duncan served the Obama administration as secretary of education.

Milwaukee Sheriff Seen as Rising Star in GOP Politics

“When I hear people say we need to reach across the aisle and work with the Democrats, you know what I’ll say? The only reason I’ll be reaching across the aisle is to grab one of them by the throat. Stop trying to fix the police; fix the ghetto.”

Mentioned as a possible opponent for Democratic Senator Tammy Baldwin in 2018, Sheriff David Clarke might make Donald Trump seem mild by comparison.

Opponent of Planned Parenthood Sees Positive Surge in His Efforts

“We have the wind in our sails. The election was a real benchmark. Pro-life voters were really a key constituency, and the Trump administration has taken note.”

Commenting on the 44th March for Life held on January 27, executive director Eric Scheidler of the Pro-Life Action League was delighted that Vice President Mike Pence spoke at the event.

The Threat Facing Trump Comes From Republicans in Congress

“The real choke point here, the real problem Trump has is not these protesters. The real problem he’s gonna have is the Republicans in Congress sticking with him.”

Commenting during his radio show, Rush Limbaugh said that Senators Lindsey Graham and John McCain will be more of a concern to the president than demonstrators and their non-spontaneous noise.
