Wrong Kathy Called Out

I agree with the commentary in the January 6, 2020 letter to editor from reader Dr. Adrian H. Krieg of Parrish, Florida. However, one mistake in that letter needs to be corrected. It was not celebrity Kathy Gifford, wife of the late NFL great Frank Gifford, who appeared in a video holding a likeness of the severed head of President Trump. Rather, it was leftist Trump-hating comedienne Kathy Griffin who did that.

Myth of Multiculturalism

The Jews are made up of many different peoples. Their multiculturalism is due to centuries of Jew diaspora. Yet, they are all Jews, united in their core commonality of religion. In fact, Jews around the world are returning to Israel in what is called “aliyah.” That is how united Jews are.

In contrast to this, Americans today are a multicultural people not united by core commonalities (no core economy, no core nationality, no common language, no common flag, etc.). This was not always the case. Americans had commonalities (the same Judeo-Christian heritage; the English language; the same TV channels for news, movies, and shows; and more). Moreover, American commonalities were supported by their strong ethnic neighborhoods: They believed in one flag, for one nation under God. That was America.

This is no longer the case. Socialist America has created a mulatto nation under the guise of “multiculturalism” and “diversity.” While Malcolm X was right in his autobiography to say that it’s ok to be black, and blacks do not have to “marry up” or act white, because superficial differences such as the way you comb your hair or the color of your skin are a reflection of who God made you to be, true diversity only causes disunity.

Today, the socialists say that we are united in diversity, yet how can people be united and diverse at the same time — now commonalities are even banned. If the U.S. Congress is united in its diversity, how do socialists explain the gridlock in Congress, where one party votes against the other? How does diversity explain the increasing antagonism between groups? This is unity? No, it’s diversity, and it doesn’t unite.

In short, Americans need to stay united in their commonalities and make an aliyah back to America.

Clinton the Criminal

I read with great interest the article entitled “Clinton Impeachment: Should Treason Have Been the Reason?” (December 9, 2019 issue) about what Bill Clinton should have been tried for in his impeachment trial. It brought back a memory of a similar and perhaps even more egregious example of President Clinton’s treasonous actions.

In the early '90s, large donations to the Democratic National Committee were received from Bernard Schwartz of Loral Corporation, as well as Johnny Chung, an aggregator of money from sources including a member of the highest level of the Communist Party in China. In 1996, despite the objections of the State Department, the Judicial Department, and the intelligence agencies, Bill Clinton personally transferred responsibility for approving satellite-export licensing from the State Department (which had refused to approve satellite transfers because the technology was secret and could be used by enemy nations such as China to improve their rockets and better target America) to the Commerce Department. A transfer of a Loral satellite was promptly approved. Also, before this time, as Clinton received campaign donations from the Communist Chinese, he personally signed waivers allowing satellite technology to be exported to China.

In The Phyllis Schlafly Report, it is noted: "The fact that Clinton personally issued the waivers to allow shipments of U.S. technology that greatly improved the accuracy and reliability of Communist China's missiles is grounds for impeachment, regardless of whether or not there was any quid pro quo for those decisions."
