Colorado Democrat Plans “Guillotines,” Violent Revolution if Trump Wins

A newly released video by Project Veritas reveals a Colorado Democrat operative and a “prominent member” of a radical leftist organization discussing violent and potentially murderous plans should President Trump be elected to a second term.

Kris Jacks, a trainer and mentor at Our Revolution protests and a member of the executive committee of the Colorado Democratic Party, stated in the video that he will do “everything morally acceptable” to prevent President Trump’s reelection.

“I am going to do everything morally acceptable to win. I will lie. I will cheat. I will steal. Because that’s morally acceptable in this political environment. Absolutely. We are pirates on a pirate ship,” Jacks said on tape.

He added: “I want to make this point very loudly and very clearly. I said it nicely before, but I’ll say it more curtly now. 2020 is a political revolution.”

Project Veritas used hidden cameras and microphones to record Jacks speaking openly about the Left’s plans to stop another four years of President Trump, even if it means violence.

“We’ve been following Kris Jacks for a long time. We first met him during the presidential primary race. Now, we have caught up with him in Colorado,” said James O’Keefe, founder and CEO of Project Veritas.

In one exchange, Jacks explained how politically motivated violence could be justified at election time:

Kristopher Jacks: “I think the right wing has a monopoly right now on strong, violent rhetoric, and I think they underestimate how many people on the left are organized, trained, armed, and ready to go should they decide to do their sh*t. And I think all it will take is our numbers and a reminder that yeah, there’s a reason you guys feared the Communists more than you feared the Nazis.”

Journalist: “So, you think the right wing—”

Jacks: “They’re a bunch of b*tches. They’re b*tch *ss bootlickers, man.”

Journalist: “Who’s the people on the left though?”

Jacks: “Doesn’t matter. We have the army already. We’re gonna show up in numbers. We’re gonna show up in mass.”

Journalist: “What do you think about like Antifa?”

Jacks: “Antifa’s great, man. I think it’s uh, Charlottesville dude. When you got people marching in the street, running people over and sh*t like that, you got people firing guns, trying to provoke sh*t, yeah even people there that are willing to stand between them and ordinary people.”

Journalist: “Yeah, I like that hit-the-streets-type mentality, you know.

Jacks: “Yeah, no and there’s definitely, there are definitely times for it, I just don’t think it’s uh, I mean it’s — that awesome thing that’s, one of those cards you have to have in your back pocket, man. Martin Luther King wouldn’t have been as successful if it wasn’t for Malcolm X and Nation of Islam, Black Panthers, all of them doing their thing too.”

Jacks then spoke more graphically about embracing violence if President Trump wins.

“I’m gonna be in my garage, right next to my gun safe, all night long, on the 3rd, because that is how seriously I take this stuff,” he said.

Jacks went on to praise armed left-wing groups such as the John Brown Gun Club. “It’s incredibly scary,” he said. “You know it’s gonna be like at that point, you know that’s when you gotta find like the John Brown Gun Society people. You know there’s gonna be, just look at every — its history, right?”

He also spoke of a need for the Left to recruit military veterans. “Well, when it comes to civil war, violence type stuff there’s always military guys, like former guys that stand up for the right thing — when that time comes, then we gotta get some of those type people involved,” he said.

To really “change the country with violence,” Jacks maintained, it would be necessary to target billionaires for assassination.

Kristopher Jacks: “If you want to do some Versailles shit. If you want to do some Antifa shit. You really want to change this country that way, with violence, there’s only one way to do it. You gotta get people that are close to billionaires and start just, random billionaires start turning up dead. And nobody knows what the fks going on. Nobody knows. Nope, I don’t know. They just turned up dead. And just three or four of ‘em is all it’s going to take. All it’s going to take is a pattern of I don’t know, I don’t know man. I don’t know what happened. Just showed up that way. I walked in. That’s how it was. That’s the only way that’s, you do that to three or four people enough to say that this is a pattern, and this is why — draw a dollar sign on their desk or whatever you do, that’s what it’s going to take. It’s going to take a strategic hit against the .1% that’s in charge, cause that’s who it is. Killing random Nazis in the street, random fking bootlickers.”

Journalist: “But like who are those like three or four billionaires right now that if it went to that?”

Jacks: “Doesn’t matter.”

Journalist: “Doesn’t matter who.”

Jacks: “Doesn’t matter who ... I mean Bezos at the top of the list.”

Journalist: “Who?”

Jacks: “Bezos.”

Jacks also described how fear tactics benefit his revolutionary objectives.

Jacks: "But they ain't stabbing mother fkers like they used to. They don't have to though cause they used to stab people. See? And that's all we gotta say. Guillotines motherfker. That's all we gotta say. Option A, what I'm proposing. Option two, slicey bois. What are your choices? Which one do you want?"

Journalist: "What do you mean? Guillotines?"

Jacks: "Unions have power because they used to stab mother fkers, they used to bury people beneath Giants Stadium. We have power. Populist uprisings have power because we used to kill people. We used to hang people from gas stations. We used to cut off their heads. We don't have to actually cut heads. We just have to say that we're willing to cut off heads. You know what I'm saying? Nobody wants a slicey boi. Nobody wants one of those."

Jacks also made clear the revolution would not be limited to targeting only Republicans.

"Half of the struggle that I have isn't with Republicans, it isn't with the right-wing," Jacks explained.

"It's with fkin moderates in the Democratic Party with all these people that are just scared of Trump. 'Oh my God. I'm so scared. I got to do something,' which is show up and piss off leftists."

Ultimately, Jacks believed Joe Biden would cooperate with the radical Left.

"Joe Biden was presumably left-wing, and he's got a functioning signing hand," Jacks said. "As long as there's progressive legislation that comes across his desk, I am confident we can occupy his house. We know where he'll live, and yeah, he wants to veto Medicare For All. Let him veto it! He's never leaving that house again without protest."
