Soros Exposed Orchestrating Ferguson Chaos

Billionaire Big Government-monger and Obama administration ally George Soros (shown) provided at least $33 million in a single year to radical leftist groups orchestrating protests and unrest in Ferguson, Missouri, and nationwide, according to an explosive investigation into filings of the globalist financier's "philanthropic" tax-exempt "Open Society" foundations. Dozens of Soros-funded outfits helped lobby the media, bus in AstroTurf protesters and "community organizers," coordinate propaganda messaging, create an "echo chamber," and more, the Washington Times revealed. Based on the establishment media's non-stop parroting of the Soros-funded propaganda, the relative success of the strategy was plain to see.

Despite the recent uproar over Soros' giant role in exploiting Ferguson and bankrolling nationwide anti-local police machinations, it is hardly the first time that Soros, a protégé of the Rothschild banking dynasty, has faced scrutiny over his pseudo-charitable activities. In fact, as The New American has documented extensively, everything from the anti-market Occupy Wall Street "movement" and the Obama campaign to deadly revolutions overseas have benefited from the powerful hedge-fund boss' largesse in recent years. Soros has also faced criticism for publicly stating that the mass-murdering Communist Party regime ruling mainland China should "own" what he and his comrades refer to as the "New World Order."

In Ferguson and beyond, though, the influence of Soros' billions was felt close to home by millions of Americans. "There's a solitary man at the financial center of the Ferguson protest movement," reported the Times, citing financial records and interviews with key players about the Soros role in fueling the manufactured chaos that engulfed Ferguson. "No, it's not victim Michael Brown or Officer Darren Wilson. It's not even the Rev. Al Sharpton, despite his ubiquitous campaign on TV and the streets. Rather, it's liberal billionaire George Soros, who has built a business empire that dominates across the ocean in Europe while forging a political machine powered by nonprofit foundations that impacts American politics and policy, not unlike what he did with MoveOn.org."

According to the Times story, which garnered headlines worldwide, Soros organizations helped mobilize demonstrators and build up "coalitions" — oftentimes coalitions of his own AstroTurf outfits — to drum up hysteria. Other Soros organizations, meanwhile, reportedly monitored and exploited anything related to Ferguson that could be portrayed as a "conservative misstep." Some groups also developed dubious "academic research" and generated editorials that the establishment press was only too happy to promote and parrot. The Soros-funded organizations "fed off each other," the Times reported, creating what the paper described as an "echo chamber" within social media and the mischaracterized “mainstream” press. Even some of the “media” outlets hyping the Soros-funded “grassroots” schemes are funded by Soros.

Among the radical Soros organizations that descended on Ferguson and participated in the scheming were the Samuel Dewitt Proctor Conference in Chicago, the Drug Policy Alliance, Make the Road New York, Equal Justice USA, Sojourners, the Advancement Project, the Center for Community Change, and networks from the Gamaliel Foundation. “All were aimed at keeping the media’s attention on the city and to widen the scope of the incident to focus on interrelated causes — not just the overpolicing and racial discrimination narratives that were highlighted by the news media in August,” the Times reported about the activities of the collection of Soros-funded groups, including more than a few race-hate mongers and pseudo-religious outfits with strong ties to the Obama administration.

Unsurprisingly, Soros apparatchiks who oversee the billionaire’s supposed philanthropic efforts downplayed the revelations and the extent of Soros’ practical control over the groups he bankrolls and in some cases helped create. “Our DNA includes a belief that having people participate in government is indispensable to living in a more just, inclusive, democratic society,” Kenneth Zimmerman, director of Soros’ Open Society Foundations’ U.S. programs, told the paper in an interview. “Helping groups combine policy, research [and] data collection with community organizing feels very much the way our society becomes more accountable.”

The Soros foundation boss noted that Soros money has been flowing to similar groups since the early 1990s and claimed that Soros’ operatives did not direct the protests — despite doling out more than $5 million to groups just in Ferguson and Staten Island last year to, as the foundation itself described it, “further police reform, accountability and public transparency.” Zimmerman also claimed implausibly that the “incidents” in those areas were “spontaneous protests” and that dumping billions of dollars into bogus “grassroots” groups does not lead to Soros operatives having the “ability to control or dictate what others say or choose to say.”

More than a few critics have referred to Soros’ operatives as “racist hate groups.” In one column lambasting admitted National Socialist \(Nazi\) collaborator Soros as “evil,” for example, the billionaire financier’s activities were described as “paying racist leftists to block roads and harass you.” Columnist Daniel Greenfield also suggested that Ferguson victims of Soros-linked rioting, looting, and violence ought to send the bill to the prominent hedge-fund boss. Ben Bullard at Personal Liberty Digest, meanwhile, noted that, by the end of the Times report, “‘echo chamber’ begins to seem an inadequate description for a coterie of groups that occupy such a claustrophobic ideological, organizational and financial space.”

Still, despite Soros’ giant footprint in Ferguson, the widely criticized billionaire was not entirely alone in fomenting the unrest — his establishment allies and other powerful forces helped too. Amid ongoing anti-police protests in New York and across much of the nation, for example, analysts dug up a 2010 news story that might have also played a role in building up the “movement.” Four years ago, New York schools introduced what was dubbed a “human rights curriculum” for middle- and high-school students. In addition to hyping controversial UN notions of “human rights,” the scheme focused heavily on the anti-police work and initiatives of self-described Communist revolutionary and Soros beneficiary Van Jones — the radical who served as Obama’s “green jobs” czar until his extremist background and intentions were exposed by the conservative press.

The Obama administration, which benefited from millions of Soros dollars on the campaign trail, was also important — with top officials, including Obama, irresponsibly meddling in and commenting on a local issue with a view to fomenting racial strife. The Justice Department, meanwhile, was recently exposed for having provided grants to a leftist “community” organization that was involved in producing a rap music video glorifying and encouraging the murder of police officers. The outfit, dubbed “Bronx Defenders,” received at least $1.5 million in U.S. taxpayer dollars from Obama’s Department of Justice, and more than $100 million from New York taxpayers since 2007. Obama’s “Organizing for Action” outfit is currently involved in training 10,000 “progressive community organizers” to fan out across America and transform the nation.

As The New American reported extensively, the dictator-dominated United Nations was also constantly seeking to stir up unrest and attacks on the unalienable rights of the American people by cynically exploiting the deaths of Trayvon Martin in Florida, Michael Brown in Ferguson, and Eric Garner in New York. From attacking gun rights and the U.S. justice system to demanding that local American police departments adhere to “international standards” and “international law,” the UN boss and hordes of his “human rights” bureaucrats were constantly interfering in U.S. affairs. Even after the police officers involved were cleared of criminal wrongdoing by their peers, the UN did not let up — at least until two New York City police officers were murdered amid the Soros-funded and UN-backed hysteria.

Of course, no manufactured statist protests to “transform America” would be complete without communist involvement and “useful idiots” to do the dirty work. And Soros’ latest antics from Ferguson to New York aimed at promoting Big Government and radical “change” were no exception. While most of the establishment press never bothered to report it, conservative-leaning websites and sources were quick to point out that the signs held by many of the demonstrators across America were produced and supplied by the Revolutionary Communist Party, USA — as the signs themselves admitted, even including an Internet address for the totalitarian party’s website. The Communist Party USA was also busy hyping and participating in the alleged “movement.”

If the “establishment” media did its job and reported the facts rather than concealing them to advance the cause of “progressivism,” none of this would be a surprise to most Americans. In fact, the “coalitions” and campaigns would probably never have happened to begin with. Instead, the wildly mischaracterized “mainstream” press was too busy frothing about the Koch brothers while justifying and glorifying rioting and looting to inform its dwindling readership about the facts. And while the Ferguson hysteria from last year appears to have died down for now — like the Soros-funded “Occupy Wall Street” machinations — the key players and financiers are without a doubt already plotting their next pseudo-“grassroots movement” to “fundamentally transform” the United States.
