“Trans Woman” Charged in Brutal Assault; Planned to Use Roommate as Sex Slave, Threatened Murder, Cops Allege

In yet another case of a tranny gone mad, a “trans woman” in Colorado Springs, Colorado, went berserk — as they so often do — and sexually assaulted, kidnapped, and imprisoned his former girlfriend, police allege.

He intended to use her as a sex slave, police allege. And if she tried to escape, he warned, he would murder her.

But a funny thing happened when the story appeared on at least one local media outlet. A headline identified the man — Cameron Mauldin — as a “woman.”

Tranny alias: “Hannah Viramontes.”

Brutal Beating

Cops had cited Viramontes “for shoplifting at a nearby mall,” and when his roommate and former girlfriend questioned him about it, then told him he appeared to be “undergoing a ‘mental health episode,’” he flipped out, Reduxx reported.

That’s when the victim’s nightmare began.

“After she inquired about the ticket, Viramontes allegedly punched her in the face with enough force to knock her to the ground,” Reduxx continued:

The victim kept a concealed handgun at her waist, and aware of this, Viramontes disarmed her and held her at gunpoint, while threatening to shoot her if she resisted.

Viramontes then handcuffed her hands behind her back, and began punching and kicking her. He also cut her with a knife, before taking her to the bedroom and sexually assaulting her. Viramontes then handcuffed the victim to his own wrist and fell asleep.

That was November 30. The next day, he told the victim she would be his “sex slave,” and threatened murder “if she called out for help.” On December 2, he beat and strangled her, and “shoved various objects into her mouth,” Reduux reported. “When the victim coughed out the items, he removed a towel rack from the bathroom and proceeded to beat her with it.”

On Day 3 of the ordeal, she escaped. Viramontes “left the handgun on a coffee table and went outside,” and “the victim, realizing one of her handcuffs was loose, was able to free one hand and grab the gun,” Reduux continued. “She then locked the door, ensuring that her attacker was prevented from entering the home.”

The furious tranny tried “to break through the sliding glass door,” the website reported, but the victim was ready and fired at him twice.

When officers arrived on the scene, they discovered the victim had sustained multiple serious injuries, including “severe” bruising to her face. She was also riddled with puncture and bite marks, and was taken to a hospital for treatment, where a doctor determined she was at “a substantial risk of serious permanent disfigurement.”

Viramontes was also taken to a hospital to be treated for a gunshot wound and was subsequently arrested. He is being held in the El Paso County jail awaiting trial, and is listed as “male” in the detention center’s records. He is being held on a $250,000 bond due to what Judge Cynthia McKedy described as “extremely aggravated” accusations.

“You’re a danger to this community,” Judge McKedy told Viramontes.

Under “Mental Health Hold”

Not surprisingly, the website learned from Colorado Springs cops, Viramontes is “under an extended mental health hold at the local hospital.” In other words, he needs a check up from the neck up. Most “trans women” do.

His first court appearance is in June.

It appears that Viramontes rather likes brutalizing women. “According to a 2021 Facebook post, Viramontes played ... against female opponents on the [women’s semi-pro football team] Rocky Mountain Thunderkatz as a linebacker,” Reduux reported. All the better to trounce a real woman — and do it legally.

News Report

Despite the truth about Viramontes — he’s a man masquerading as a woman — CBS affiliate KKTV in Colorado Springs offered this headline over its story about the crime: “Woman arrested on kidnapping, sexual assault charges following shooting investigation near Colorado Springs elementary school.”

Its first sentence also lied about Viramontes.

“A woman is facing kidnapping and sexual assault charges following a shooting investigation in a Colorado Springs neighborhood Monday afternoon,” the station falsely reported.

The station revealed that two workers saw Viramontes stagger out of the home and called 911.

The report called Viramontes a “woman” four times, yet used the pronoun “they” to describe the “woman.” Citing cops, the CBS affiliate reported:

The person who was shot is the one facing charges in the case. They have been identified as Hannah Viramontes and will be taken into custody once they are released from the hospital.

Trans Crazies

“Hannah Viramontes” is only the latest “trans woman” who erupted in violent rage.

Last year, a tranny “vampire” and veteran sex criminal name Adam Hetke was convicted of sexually assaulting a 16-year-old mentally disabled girl in 2021. He has also been charged with first-degree intentional homicide for strangling a man with a power cord.

“According to the complaint in that case, Hetke reportedly strangled a man to death using a power cord in April of 2021, though he apparently blamed the murder on a ‘demon,’” Reduxx reported:

He told Milwaukee police that the victim was “possessed by a demon” and began stabbing himself in the chest with tongs.

Hetke said he was only trying to exorcise the demon from the victim, but that the demon caused the victim to wrap a cord around his own neck and pull the ends. But a witness in that case has testified that Hetke admitted to murdering the man because he “disrespected” him, and that Hetke told the witness he was an incarnation of Satan.
