First Australia, Now Germany: Trans Men Join Women's Soccer

Having already ruined women's soccer in Australia, "trans women" have selected their next target: Women's soccer in Germany.

The Bavarian Football Association has permitted a balding fellow who calls himself Laura to join ladies.

How many women players will suffer a broken leg when many more Lauras begin competing cannot be known. But injuries there will be, the experience of Australian women shows, and the people responsible will be those who permitted the men to play.

He's Just "Unlucky"

The ReduXX website, which tracks tranny madness and keeps a close eye on the man-ladies and their crimes, disclosed the latest assault on women's sports.

The culprit this time is Laura Hannah Holstein, 25, "the subject of a glowing profile in the Main-Post after joining the Effeltrich/Hetzles Football Syndicate," the website reported:

According to the article, Holstein, who is a Master's Student at the University of Erlangen-Nuremberg, was given the ability to participate after Grit Labahn, the head of policy at the Munich BFA headquarters, personally vouched for him.

"I can't tell people who have a different, non-binary gender identity and want to play football: You were unlucky," Labahn said. Though there are only male and female categories in German football, the BFA has a "case-by-case" inclusion policy, so Labahn explains she had to argue for Holstein's right to participate in the women's league.

Holstein joined the team after another "trans woman's" testosterone made "her too strong to participate with the other women."

The soccer chief told the Main-Post that men will be permitted to join women's teams "case-by-case" after their hormones are checked. And Holstein is a "blueprint" for bringing more men to play women's soccer, ReduXX continued:

"We will certainly not revise our decision even if hostilities come. On the contrary: I can only encourage trans people to dare to go public and play football," Labahn explained.

He's Just One of the Girls

As for Holstein, well, it's safe to say he needs a checkup from the neck up.

He decided he was a woman after he watched a movie about Danish man Lili Elbe, who died, naturally enough, “after his body rejected a uterus implanted into him in 1931,” Reduux observed. Not surprisingly, Magnus Hirschfeld, the German communist homosexual known as Aunt Magnesia because he paraded about Berlin in drag, was involved in the Elbe case. Two surgeons mutilated Elbe by removing his testicles and implanting the uterus.

The Danish Girl movie left Holstein “touched extremely internally,” and so much so that “I questioned what I really feel deep inside.”

Only then did he find his inner woman.

He began hormone replacement and laser hair removal in 2020, Reduux continued. He will legally “change” his sex to female, or so he and the “trans woman” brotherhood believe.

In his profile by Main-Post, Holstein is described as “discreetly masculine at first glance,” something the author attributes to his “high forehead.” The author also describes Holstein’s “breast gently emerging under [his] jersey.”

Holstein is apparently unconcerned about his appearance, questioning “what is so hard to understand about it: I’m just a woman who looks different. Why should I flaunt excessive femininity?”

While Holstein won’t officially begin playing against opposing women’s teams until the August season, he has begun participating in training sessions, and is sharing the female locker room with the women and girls on the Effeltrich/Hetzles Football Syndicate.

As some players are underage, concerns were raised about Holstein exposing his penis during shower times — an issue the coach attempted to address by providing Holstein a shower schedule.

Coach Christian Wagner won’t put up with any “transphobic remarks,” either, and those who make them will be banished.

Injuries in Australia

German officials should prepare themselves for women to drop out if news from Australia indicates just what they think about playing with men.

Two dozen women recently dropped off a team because they didn’t want to play a championship squad that featured five men, Reduux reported last week. That team, the Flying Bats, recently crushed an opponent to win the Beryl Ackroyd Cup and its $1,000 prize.

Reduux reported that an audio recording of the club president, Frank Parisi, leaked on social media. At a meeting of the North West Sydney Football Association, which convened to discuss the invasion of “trans women” into women’s sports, the coach described the entirely unsurprising result:

Parisi can be heard describing an incident that took place “a couple of years” prior in which a female player was so severely injured by a trans-identified male player that she was no longer able to participate in the sport.

game. It was a clumsy tackle from behind. Our player had her leg broken in two places and she's no longer playing football.

Men have also invaded women's cycling, arm-wrestling, weightlifting, and track and field. They even play women's darts.
