Kentucky Judge Frees “Trans” Baby Molester at Behest of “Trans” Attorney; Authorities in Montana Kidnap Child Because Parents Won’t Let Her “Transition”

The courts in Kentucky have a message for the “trans” men who pretend they are women. If you sexually molest a baby, no worries. You won’t go to jail, and you won’t be convicted of a felony if you can’t get your estrogen in jail.

And the courts will take your pro-molester “trans woman” attorney seriously and do whatever “she” wants.

The molester in this case is one “Maria Childers,” who molested a baby girl at a daycare center in Paducah.

The Childers case isn’t the only recent example of the authorities abiding by “trans” ideology. In Montana, authorities kidnapped a 14-year-old girl because her parents would not accept her claim to be “non-binary.”

Arrested Last Year

Cops arrested Childers in February last year, which raises the obvious observation that the wheels of justice in Kentucky are turning rather slowly.

Reduux, a feminist online magazine, reported on the crime in December, but only recently received the full court report.

“A co-worker had asked Childers for assistance in changing an infant’s diaper,” the webzine reported:

While Childers was cleaning the baby’s genitals, the co-worker noticed that the infant appeared to be in distress and asked Childers if he was hurting the baby. She then witnessed Childers rub the infant’s genitals in a “circular motion,” while saying “that was her ct area and she likes it. It just made her day.”

While Childers was reported to management at the Academy, he was only given a “write up.” Police later learned that Childers had also been accused by other co-workers of leaving the children in high chairs for “hours” without care.

After being taken to the police station for questioning, Childers initially claimed he had not changed the infant’s diaper at all. He later admitted to having done so after an officer presented him with evidence in the form of a text that he had sent to the daycare’s director confirming the baby’s diaper had been changed. He then tried to deny he had ever said anything inappropriate, but admitted he often said things that were “taken out of context.”

Cops charged Childers with “1st Degree Sexual Abuse of a Victim Under 12 and three counts of 1st Degree Criminal Abuse of a Child Under 12.”

The first crime is a Class C felony punishable by up to 10 years in prison. The second crime became a Class B felony in 2022 and could invite a 20-year sentence.

But the judge apparently believed that molesting a baby doesn’t deserve jail time, Reduxx reported. He merrily went along with Childers’ “trans” attorney, who is apparently Clarence Darrow in a dress.

The judge reduced Childers’ bond from $100,000 cash to a $5,000 surety bond, which permits a defendant to be released without paying a dime.

Even worse, however, was the plea deal on the crimes.

“On January 29, 2024, Childers struck an apparent deal with prosecutors,” Reduxx reported. In exchange for a guilty plea, his charge of 1st Degree Sexual Abuse of a Victim Under 12 was amended to Class A Misdemeanor Sexual Misconduct, and the remaining abuse charges were dropped.”

The judge sentenced Childers to 12 months in jail, the penalty for the crime, “but withheld sentencing and imposed a conditional discharge for 6 months,” Reduxx continued.

That means that Childers won’t spend any time in jail if he doesn’t commit any crimes and abides by the conditions the judge set, which include staying away from children.

The judge apparently swallowed this codswallop that appears in a motion from the “trans” attorney:

The Jail has the Defendant in solitary confinement because she is a trans woman and has undergone hormonal changes. Solitary confinement can have many detrimental effects on the mind of the individual. Further, she is not receiving all of her medicines because some of the medicines she receives in patch form. Not having her estrogen can have harmful effects on her mind and body.

Government Seizes “Trans” Child in Montana

For its part, Reduxx routinely exposes the surrender of public officials and governments to trans ideology. Last week, it revealed that yet another court did so.

The webzine reported the horror story of Krista and Todd Kolstad in Glasgow, Montana, whose mentally ill daughter, “Jennifer” (not her real name), claimed she was “non-binary” and wanted to be called “Leo.”

The trouble for the couple began when the 14-year-old girl mentioned suicide in school. She landed in the hospital after telling social workers on a home visit that she had tried to commit suicide. She hadn’t, but she told doctors about her “transition.”

Almost immediately, hospital personnel began encouraging “gender affirming” care and refused to honor the parents’ disciplinary beliefs, such as restricting junk food and phone and television time.

Shortly thereafter, Reduxx reported, the Kolstads and Child and Family Services (CFS) agreed to place her in a mental hospital, but the authorities wanted to send the girl to a facility in Wyoming. The Kolstads worried that the state would permit Jennifer to undergo surgical mutilation without parental consent:

Concern began to set in, but Krista and Todd were assured that the most likely scenario was Jennifer being placed in a Montana-based facility, and on August 22, Krista and Todd were told that Jennifer was next in line for a bed in Billings, Montana.

But hours later that same day, Krista and Todd were called and informed Jennifer would be moved to Wyoming.

“They called and told us that a bed had opened up in Wyoming and that Jennifer needed to go. [The Doctor] said ‘she has to go. she’s not doing any good here,’ and we were really blown away,” Krista recounts. “No one talked to us about the name of the facility — we had no one to answer our questions. We told them we wanted our questions answered before we accepted the bed.”

Ten minutes later, Child and Family Services arrived at the Kolstad residence with police.

“They showed up at our home to serve us with papers to take Jennifer out of our care,” Krista says. “They told me the reason was that we were ‘unable or refusing to provide medical care.’ That’s just not true.”

The authorities sent the girl to Wyoming, and though she returned to Montana, CFS seized legal custody on January 19, Reduxx reported:

“We were told that letting Jennifer transition and live as a boy was in her ‘therapeutic best interest’ and because we aren’t willing to follow that recommendation, the court gave CFS custody of Jennifer for six months,” Krista says. “CFS is now going to place Jennifer in the care of her birth mother in Canada, who has never really been a part of her life. The judge said to us ‘you need to expect that reunification with your family may not be what you are expecting.’”

The Kolstads’ ordeal is far from over.
