Celebrity Global-warming Hypocrisy

In June of this 2014, Bloomberg released a new report, "Risky Business: The Economic Risk of Climate Change." Bloomberg is just one of many of the celebrity and wealthy who live the lavish lifestyle who tell the rest of the world to lower their standard of living while their carbon footprint dwarf third-world nations.

The video player interface features a blue header with the title "Celebrity Global-warming Hypocrisy" and the subtitle "UN's Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change". On the right side of the header are icons for a clock and a share button. The main content area has a dark blue background. On the left, there is a portrait of Dr. Indur Goklany, a man with a beard and glasses wearing a suit and tie. To the right of the portrait, white text reads: "Rising global food prices attributable just to 'green' bio production may have led to at least 192,000 excess deaths and 6.7 million disability-adjusted life years (DALYs) in 2010 alone." Below the portrait is a small caption that reads "Dr. Indur Goklany". At the bottom of the video player, there is a red banner with the "New American" logo repeated multiple times.
