COVID Infections Among the Jabbed Are Rising; mRNA Vax Inventor Worried

Bad news for proponents of the China Virus vaccine: Multiple reports suggest the jab isn't as effective as advocates contend.

In Britain, almost 50 percent of those who contracted the virus of late had been vaccinated, and more than 100 British vaccinated sailors on one ship caught the virus as well. Other countries have similar high rates of the vaccinated coming down with the lab-made pathogen.

The news won't likely slow down the pro-jab propaganda campaign.

Almost Half

"Vaccinated Britons now make up almost half of Covid cases in the country, a symptom-tracking study suggested today — but there are signs the third wave may have already peaked," the Daily Mail reported last week:

King's College London scientists estimated 33,118 people were catching the virus daily in the week ending July 10, compared to 33,723 in the previous seven-day spell.

But 47 per cent of cases are among those who have received at least one dose of the Covid vaccine, surging upwards from around a quarter at the start of June.

Amusingly, the newspaper quickly reminded readers that the news "does not mean the jabs do no work. Scientists have always been honest that they are not perfect and millions will still be vulnerable to infection even after getting both doses."

Actually, scientists haven't "always been honest" about the jab or the virus, but in any event many of the vaccinated who contracted the virus had only received one of the two required shots. One of those honest scientists told the newspaper that the "virus was 'running out' of non-jabbed Britons to infect, with nearly 90 per cent of adults having now received at least one dose."

"Studies show a single dose is less effective at preventing infection, although it still drastically slashes the risk of hospitalisation and death," the newspaper continued:

Jabs are also slightly weaker against the Indian variant, which triggered the third wave....

As many as 15,537 infections are occurring every day among people who have got at least one jab....

This was up 40 per cent from 11,084 daily infections a fortnight ago.

Among Britons who had not been jabbed there were estimated to be 17,581 daily infections, a fall of 20 per cent on the previous period....

More than 46 million Britons — or 87.4 percent of adults — have got at least one dose of the Covid vaccine. And 35.1 million — or 66.7 percent — have received both doses.

But two jabs don't seem to work against the virus, either, the BBC reported.

About 100 British sailors aboard the aircraft carrier HMS Queen Elizabeth have contracted the bug. "Several other warships in the fleet accompanying it are also affected," BBC reported. Every crew member of the carrier "had received two doses of a Covid-19 vaccine and the outbreak was being managed."

Another two-jab virus patient is Britain's Health Minister.

mRNA Pioneer Worried

No wonder the inventor of mRNA vaccines is concerned.

"This is worrying me quite a bit," Robert Malone tweeted above a long thread from Corona Realism that showed significant numbers of new cases in mostly vaccinated populations.

"Something really odd is going on," Corona Realism tweeted:

In Europe we are seeing surges at many places where most of the population has already been vaccinated.

At the same time, the 15 least vaccinated countries don't seem to face any problem.

At some point, denying this problem will get painful.

The thread included multiple charts that depict the rise in infections among the vaccinated.

Almost everyone on Cyprus has been vaccinated, the thread continued, yet the country has "Highest case count in the world."

Likewise for Malta, which has the "highest vaccination rate in the western world" and "one of the steepest inclines in cases you may ever have seen."

"Emirates: highest vaccination rate in the whole world," the thread continued. "They just experienced their second highest peak since pandemic began."

There are a lot more examples for high-vaccinated, surging countries in Europe now.

Actually almost every high-vaccinated state is surging (despite restrictions!), every low-vaccinated state is NOT!

Now also germany starts worrying about rising numbers.
