Pandemic of the Vaccinated? Real-world Data Says It Is, and It May Get Worse

While the Biden administration and “liberal” states, cities, and businesses across the nation impose unconstitutional draconian rules forcing people to receive experimental gene therapeutics, aka COVID vaccines, or lose a job or face other negative consequences in a bid to “eliminate COVID,” the vaccines appear to actually do little to protect one from getting COVID, spreading it to others, or even landing in a hospital.

On Thursday, Senator Ron Johnson (R-Wis.) took to the Senate floor to unveil some data that sheds light on the shocking inefficiency of the vaccines that have been pushed so hard on the American public.

In his speech, Johnson referred to public health figures from England, explaining that the health authorities in the United States are obfuscating the facts or misleading Americans with their COVID reports.

“Let’s look at some data,” Sen. Johnson said, “The type of data we are not getting from our healthcare agencies, so we have to look, unfortunately, to England and Israel, that are more transparent.”

Johnson continued, citing the official stats from Public Health England, an executive agency of the Department of Health and Social Care in England (pdf). According to its one of the latest briefings, dated September 17, 2021, that covers the number of cases for about seven-and-a-half months, there were about 750,000 new COVID cases, some 600,000 of which were attributed to the Delta strain.

Of the 600,000 cases, 27 percent of those infected were fully vaccinated people, a third were partially vaccinated or “undetermined,” and 43 percent were unvaccinated.

Johnson reminded the public how President Biden stated on July 21 that those who got the shot are immune from getting COVID.

The full quote from the president:

“One last thing that’s really important is, we’re not in the position where we think that any virus, including the Delta virus, which is much more transmissible and more deadly in terms of unvaccinated people, the — the various shots that people are getting now cover that. You’re OK. You’re not going to — you’re not going to get COVID if you have these vaccinations.”

On July 31, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) contradicted the president’s words in a statement that the viral load vaccinated and unvaccinated people carry when infected is “similar.” The vaccination was still recommended to everyone since it was said to reduce the risk of severe COVID complications.

The narrative then changed from “getting the shot will protect you from COVID” to “getting the shot will protect you from COVID complications.” Simultaneously, the message “the government must protect the unvaccinated from the virus” (hence the CDC recommending mask for everyone) changed into “the government must protect vaccinated from unvaccinated,” as the president put it when announcing a slew of vaccine mandates.

It remained unclear why the vaccinated people needed the government’s protection from the unvaccinated folks on top of the protection they presumably got from the “safe and “effective” and “lifesaving” vaccines. After all, the president himself claimed that “only one out of every 160,000 fully vaccinated Americans was hospitalized for COVID per day.”

Stating that “This is a pandemic of the unvaccinated,” Biden argued that those “80 million Americans who have failed to get the shot,” while being a “25 percent minority,” cause “a lot of damage.” It turns out, the president is yet again wrong.

Moreover, Sen. Johnson showed, there were more vaccinated Britons who died because of COVID than their unvaccinated compatriots, 63 percent vs. 28 percent, respectively.

“Now, this is information the American people have probably never heard,” the senator said, “This information, by conveying it, I will get attacked. I will be vilified. I will be censored. I will be suppressed.” Presumably, Johnson was referring to the YouTube’s recent announcement to ban any “misinformation” claiming that federally or internationally approved vaccines are dangerous or don’t work.

The same dire situation was observed in heavily vaccinated Israel, where a whopping 95% of all severe COVID cases were reported in August in fully vaccinated people, and 85-90% of all hospitalizations were also in that cohort.

The Land Down under reports that people who are inoculated against COVID are taken to the hospitals with COVID in larger numbers than those who were not jabbed. Speaking last week, Victoria Health Minister Martin Foley indicated that of all recent COVID hospitalizations, 78 percent of the patients were fully vaccinated, and 17 percent were partially vaccinated, and only five percent of people hospitalized with COVID were unvaccinated.

The efficacy of the vaccines is admitted to wane over time even by the vaccine manufacturers themselves, so they say the booster shots will be needed on a seasonal basis.

Still, it is hard not to notice a disturbing disproportion of fully vaccinated people suffering from severe COVID complications — a stark contrast to what would be expected given the official narrative.

There may be an explanation for that, and it is not good news for the inoculated.

As reported by Independent Sentinel, the Department of Defense program named “Project Salus,” run in cooperation with the JAIC (Joint Artificial Intelligence Center), has analyzed data on 5.6 million Medicare beneficiaries aged 65 and older, and found that “the vast majority of COVID hospitalizations are occurring among fully-vaccinated individuals and that outcomes among the fully vaccinated are growing worse with each passing week.” The study was shared on Twitter by Dr. Robert Malone, an inventor of the mRNA technology used in Pfizer and Moderna vaccines.

Per the outlet:

“This [data] appears to fit the pattern of so-called Antibody Dependent Enhancement, where the treatment intervention (mRNA vaccines) is worsening health outcomes and leading to excess hospitalizations and deaths.”

That means, the vaccines put one at a greater risk of being hospitalized with COVID or dying from it. As French virologist Dr. Luc Montagnier previously warned, the vaccines don't stop the spread of the virus — they “feed” it to become deadlier. “You see it in each country, it's the same: the curve of vaccination is followed by the curve of deaths,” Montagnier said, and urged people to reject the jab.
