

Ilhan Omar Shares Racist Tirade of NBC Late Night Host

Representative Ilhan Omar (D-Minn.) — who is famously a member of the “Squad” of far-left congressional delegates that also includes Representatives Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez (D-N.Y.), Rashida Tlaib (D-Mich.) and Ayanna Pressley (D-Mass.) — shared a racist video from NBC late night of Amber Ruffin, in which Ruffin claimed that “white people have been getting away with murder since time began.”

Omar tweeted, “in case you need a reminder...” and shared the vile snippet from Ruffin’s little-watched television show.

On her own, Omar — who has been credibly accused of marrying her own brother to help him escape immigration laws — has claimed that Kyle Rittenhouse — who was cleared of all charges for his self-defense killings of convicted pedophile Joseph Rosenbaum and repeat domestic abuser Anthony Huber last week — “executed two people.” Her fellow “Squad” member Ayanna Pressley called Rittenhouse a “white supremacist domestic terrorist.”

Never mind that the violent rioters whom Rittenhouse shot were all white men. He’s still a racist, according to communist skills such as Pressley and Omar.

As a candidate, even Joe Biden suggested without any evidence that Rittenhouse was a “white supremacist.”

Still, the video shared by Omar sunk to a new level of low, attacking white people in general, judge Bruce Schroeder who presided over the case, and the U.S. justice system in an emotional tirade filled with falsehoods and racist dog whistles.

“It’s not ok for a man to grab a rifle, travel across state lines, and shoot three people and then walk free,” Ruffin whined incorrectly. Rittenhouse’s friend Dominick Black stored the weapon in Kenosha. He did not, as the media continues to incorrectly opine, “carry a gun across state lines.”

Ruffin went on: “It’s not ok for the judicial system to be blatantly and obviously stacked against people of color,” she said. “It’s not ok for there to be an entirely different set of rules for white people.”

Perhaps the late-night comedienne would care to show us where this “entirely different set of rules” exists, besides in the imagination of race-baiting leftists.

“I don’t care about Kyle Rittenhouse. I don’t care about that racist judge. And I don’t care about how fed up that jury must be,” Ruffin said. “White people have been getting away with murder since time began.”

Ruffin closed the segment by telling her viewers, “You matter,” an obvious reference to the neo-Marxist organization known as Black Lives Matter. “Everytime one of these verdicts come out, it’s easy to feel like you don’t, but, I’m here to tell you that you do, you matter. You matter so much that the second you start to get a sense that you do, a man will grab a gun he shouldn't have in the first place, and travel all the way to another state just to quiet you.”

Again, the violent rioters that Rittenhouse shot were white — not black.

But perhaps Ruffin is right about there being separate rules for white people and people of color. Because it's very hard to believe if a young black man had exhibited the same behavior that Rittenhouse did, with as much exculpatory evidence that existed, that he would have been charged at all. Indeed, he would have been extolled as a hero.

The leftist media doesn't care at all that they've utterly destroyed the life of a young man who just wanted to help in a situation where police and other first responders were unable or unwilling to. They tarred and feathered young Kyle — without evidence — as a white supremacist and a racist. And they did it and continue to do it all for the sake of their precious narrative — the truth be damned.

Where, after all, can Kyle go to get his reputation back after the smears of people such as Omar and Ruffin?
