Biden “Migrant” Charged in Texas Horror Robbery Is Tren de Aragua Gang Member

Yet again, a Venezuelan “migrant” whom border authorities released into the nation on the long-standing orders of President Joe Biden has been identified as a member of the murderous Tren de Aragua gang.

He is robbery suspect Wilmer Colmenares Gonzalez, 27, who was arrested after a stand-off with police in Dallas, Texas, and the robbery and pistol-whipping of a woman in her home.

Three other Venezuelan thugs were arrested as well.

Ever since Biden opened the border and began illegally releasing “migrants” into the heartland, the gang has been operating nationwide, from Texas, to Colorado, to New York City.

The Robbery

The latest trouble from some of Biden’s Venezuelan bosom buddies began on September 21, when ringleader Gonzalez and three other feral thugs, Yean Brayhan Torralba, 20, Alberto Martinez Silva, 34, and Manuel Hernandez-Hernandez, 28, robbed a woman in Dallas.

Cops arrested Hernandez-Hernandez first, then the other three at an apartment complex near the Dallas Fort Worth airport after an eight-hour standoff with cops.

Hernandez-Hernandez, police allege, cracked and ratted out the others, Fox4 in Dallas reported:

Hernandez-Hernandez told police he had received a Facebook message asking to meet up with a man he knew as “Cuma” from an Irving apartment.

An arrest warrant affidavit says that Hernandez-Hernandez got into a black SUV with four other men.

“[Hernandez-Hernandez] believed they were going to get money owed by a prostitute because he was aware ‘Cuma’ and the other suspects were involved in sex trafficking,” reads an affidavit.

In Northwest Dallas, the warrant alleges, the men first attacked the woman in her driveway. Then they terrorized her as they robbed her home.

cops. The goons spoke with the woman with Google Translate as they robbed her, the warrant says. Fox continued:

The woman told police the men hit her on the head with a gun and threatened to cut off her fingers if she didn't comply.

Police say the men made off with $75,000 in jewelry, a Gucci purse, a Ferragamo handbag, a Judith Leiber handbag, the woman's phone and several coins from a wooden box.

Police collared Hernandez-Hernandez because he left a fingerprint on the box.

"Confirmed" Gang Member

Sources confirmed to the New York Post that ringleader Gonzalez is indeed a member of Tren de Aragua. He's also a typical Biden "migrant."

"Gonzalez crossed the border illegally into Brownsville, Texas, with his wife, who is also Venezuelan, and a Chilean child in April 2023, the Post explained:

They were quickly released into the country with a future court date in Chicago, Homeland Security sources told The Post.

Since his arrest in the Dallas area, federal immigration authorities have labeled him as a confirmed Tren de Aragua member, per sources.

He also has a pending application for temporary protected status, which the Biden-Harris administration gives to certain Venezuelan migrants seeking to stay in the US without the threat of deportation.

Gonzalez, the Post reported, pistol-whipped the robbery victim in her garage before robbing her.

Hernandez-Hernandez is a Biden "migrant," too, the Post revealed. He jumped the border in March but, like Gonzalez, was "quickly released ... with a future court date in Chicago, where he told border agents he would be living."

Hernandez-Hernandez was known to cops because they had arrested him for drunk driving. They let him go free.

Police also suspect the other three South American goons of gang membership.

Terror Gang

In September, five days before that robbery, GOP Governor Greg Abbott declared Tren de Aragua a terrorist outfit.

"Tren de Aragua gangsters are like cockroaches," said Steve McCraw, director of the Department of Public Safety:

They multiply quickly; small intrusions into communities become infestations if not aggressively pursued. These Venezuelan thugs are highly combative, violent, and certainly adaptable. They're always involved in situations that first start with human smuggling. Then they are involved in the extortion, kidnappings, rape, assaults, and sex trafficking of migrants.

The vice president of the National Border Patrol Council, Chris Cabrera, said that Tren de Aragua members don't advertise their gang affiliation with tattoos, as does the Salvadoran gang MS-13.

"We have no way of vetting these people other than the honor system. If they tell us their name, we can't check against Venezuela's database," he said. "It is an infestation that's taking hold not just in Colorado or New York but in Michigan, Florida, Texas, you name it. If people don't wake up and see it for what it is, we're going to be in a lot of trouble in this country."

The gang took over a since-closed hotel in El Paso. Cops there were called nearly 700 times since 2022 to handle major crimes such as arson, thefts, burglaries, and aggravated assaults, a complaint from the county attorney says.

One-hundred gang members stormed the border in El Paso in March.

In Colorado, the gang has taken over apartment complexes in Aurora. Four of its members there have been arrested for attempted murder.

In New York City, its members are committing major crimes, and beat up two cops.

Per Cabrera, maybe the people who need to wake up are President Joe Biden and Vice President Kamala Harris.
