Soros-Backed Haitian Migrant Group Charges Trump, Vance With Crimes Because of Cat-eating Claims

The cat-eating lobby in Springfield, Ohio, is hissing mad and its claws are out.

The reason: The Haitian “migrant community” is suffering because former President Donald Trump and his running mate, Ohio Senator J.D. Vance, said that Haitian “migrants” — dumped in Springfield by the Biden-Harris administration — are causing trouble, not least by eating the city’s ducks and geese in its park, and even cats.

The hate is intolerable, the racism incalculable, the xenophobia incapacitating. Indeed, the suffering has become a catastrophe, a veritable catalog of miseries almost too cataclysmic to contemplate.

Thus has an open-borders outfit called the Haitian Bridge Alliance, which receives big bucks from communist George Soros’ Open Society Foundations, filed criminal charges against the two candidates and demanded their arrest.

The lawyer who filed the case is a major Harris fanboy.

“Baseless Claims”

Trump inadvertently stepped into a full litter box during his rigged debate with Vice President Kamala Harris.

“They’re eating the dogs,” Trump said. “They’re eating the cats. They’re eating the pets of the people that live there.”

Vance said the same thing.

The fur flew.

The claims were “baseless,” the hate-Trump leftist media reported, a “debunked conspiracy theory” meant to stir up hate against the hard-working “migrants.”

The claims aren’t and weren’t baseless, but at any rate a lawyer called Subodh Chandra filed criminal charges against Trump and Vance on behalf of the Haitian Bridge Alliance. It falsely bills itself as a “grass-roots nonprofit community organization.” It might be nonprofit, but it isn’t “grassroots.” Funding comes not only from Soros but also through ActBlue.

Anyway, “Trump and Vance have knowingly spread a false and dangerous narrative by claiming that Springfield, Ohio’s Haitian community is criminally killing and eating neighbors’ dogs and cats, and killing and eating geese. They accused Springfield’s Haitians of bearing deadly disease,” the criminal charges allege:

They repeated such lies during the presidential debate, at campaign rallies, during interviews on national television, and on social media.

The direct impact on Springfield, Ohio of Trump and Vance's unrelenting lies cannot be overstated.

The ridiculous filing alleges that the two committed six crimes:

- disrupted public service;
- Causing false alarms
- telecommunications harassment
- aggravating menacing, twice
- Complicity by conspiring with one another

What About the Cat Eating?

As myriad news reports demonstrated, the Haitian Biden "migrants" in particular and Third World "migrants" in general are a serious and growing problem.

Of the former, The Federalist confirmed that Springfield cops have received reports that Haitians are killing the city's avian wildlife:

A recording of a police phone call obtained by The Federalist reveals a local resident reporting a group of Haitian migrants carrying four geese in Springfield, Ohio two weeks ago.

"I'm sitting here, I'm riding on the trail, I'm going to my orientation for my job today, and I see a group of Haitian people, there was about four of 'em, they all had geese in their hand," the caller tells the public services dispatcher in the audio recording of the call....

"How many geese did they have?" the dispatcher asks the caller in the recording.

"Uh, they each had one," he replies.

The "migrants" have no reason to catch the birds if they aren't eating them.

The 911 call comports with other reports, such as those detailed by The New American. Mayoral candidate Anthony Harris complained to the city council about the Haitian car crash crisis, and said "they're in the park, grabbing up ducks by their neck and cutting their head off and walking off with them and eating them."

Journalist Christopher Rufo confirmed that African "migrants" in Dayton eat cats.

But as well, on September 21, journalist Kristopher J. Anderson X-posted two pages from a legal motion that apparently confirm the cat-eating story. The pages are from a response to a plaintiff's motion for an injunction against the city. The plaintiff: Haitian Bridge Alliance. The defendant: Springfield.

"The sacrificial consumption of animals, particularly pets such as cats, poses a serious health risk to the community, including potential zoonotic diseases and public sanitation issues," the response said:

Local regulations and city ordinances are designed to prevent harm and safeguard public welfare. These regulations are consistent with both state and federal laws aimed to protect animal welfare and public health.

The response also notes that the “plaintiff alleges that their constitutional rights outweigh the rights of pet owners.”

That invites the obvious observation that the filing wouldn’t mention the consumption of cats if cats were not being consumed — by Haitians.

“Constitutional rights” apparently refers to Haitian voodoo. On X, a young woman who claimed to be the daughter of a Haitian immigrant, explained it clearly.

“The majority of the island does practice voodoo,” she said, citing her immigrant father.

“They eat cats for two reasons,” she said:

Number one is for survival. This is the poorest country in the Western Hemisphere. ...
Second, they do do animal sacrifices for their religion, voodoo.

A man who claimed to be from the Caribbean said the same thing in another X post. “The Haitian immigrants are indeed eating animals,” he said:

Let me tell you something about these people. Not only are they harvesting cats for food, but also for witchcraft purposes, voodoo purposes. Understand this — if you don’t wanna take my word for it, go out there, meet a Haitian, talk to them about it.

This is not something they aren’t proud of. It’s their culture. They eat these animals and they use the blood and bones of these animals for voodoo and witchcraft purposes. This is not a joke.

Lawyer a Harris Fundraiser

The cat-consumption question aside, lawyer Chandra isn’t just working on behalf of Soros-backed subversives. He just loves Kamala Harris. He’s an unofficial Harris fundraiser.

“Please join me again in supporting the next president of the United States, @KamalaHarris!” he wrote on X right after Harris “debated” Trump. “Contribute here,” he continued. There followed a link to ActBlue.

That appeared over Harris’ lies that “I grew up a middle-class kid” and that someone handed Trump “$400 million on a silver platter.”

In 2019, Chandra bragged that he was, in a way, family to Harris:

When @KamalaHarris met my mom Shanta at our home a few years ago, Kamala immediately addressed her as “Auntie.” That’s when I knew she was the real deal.
