In this important edition of Conversations That Matter, The New American's senior editor Alex Newman speaks with Chuck Coppes — financial analyst; founder and president of IDP Consulting Group; and author of America's Financial Reckoning Day.

Alex and Chuck discuss the current financial situation in America and the world, including the loss of the dollar's reserve currency status; the rapidly advancing move to eliminate cash and institute a central bank digital currency; and how the Federal Reserve is using debt to destroy America. They close with some practical advice on how individuals can prepare for the crisis that is imminent — America's financial reckoning day.
