In this interview with The New American, Claudiu Târziu, Senator of the Romanian Parliament representing the Alliance for the Unity of Romanians (AUR), discusses the existential threats posed by globalism to Europe and the world. He underscores globalism's corrupting effect on people's souls and minds via education, the devastating effects of the climate agenda on the economy, and the deeply anti-freedom and anti-human roots of its neo-Marxist ideology. European voters are faced with a simple choice, he says, it's either life or death, freedom or slavery.

The New American magazine covers the Make Europe Great Again (MEGA) conference in Bucharest, Romania on April 27-28.
