In this interview with The New American, Cristian Terheş, Member of the European Parliament (MEP) from Romania, discusses the upcoming European elections that will take place on June 6–9. He talks about how the political landscape is shaping for conservatives and describes the detrimental aspects of the cumbersome and anti-democratic Brussels regime. Mr. Terheş also points out the alarming legislative initiatives of the EU member states, such as France’s aspirations to enshrine the “right” to abortion in the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights.
