People Are Turning On Globalism. Now What?

With the election of Giorgia Meloni as Italy's new prime minister, Italians joined the Poles, Hungarians, the "far-right" Swedish Democrats, pro-Brexit Britons, Jair Bolsonaro's Brazilian supporters, and, of course, MAGA Americans, under the growing anti-globalism tent. But what difference will it make? Nationalistic sentiment and rhetoric are a long way from government policy. In this episode, Paul and Art Thompson, former CEO of The John Birch Society, discuss the world's growing anti-globalist sentiment and what it will take to convert that into liberty.
