In this interview with The New American, Rep. Thomas Massie (R-Ky.) addresses a number of topics, including: the U.S. handling of the situation in Ukraine; President Volodymyr Zelenskyy's recent video address before a joint-session of Congress; inflation as a result of both massive Congressional spending and the Federal Reserve creating brand new money out of thin air, thereby devaluating the existing currency already in circulation; his lawsuit against the CDC over mask mandates on commercial airline flights; and where he stands when it comes to state legislatures applying to Congress to call for an Article V constitutional convention to supposedly rein in the federal government.
