Two of the most famous men in the world had a long conversation while millions of people tuned in to listen. Elon Musk hosted Donald Trump on X spaces, and despite the delayed start, they covered a lot of ground. Earlier in the day, the European Union's censorship czar sent Musk a letter warning him to abide by the EU's speech diktats, citing the unrest in England over unfettered migration. Trump and Musk covered a lot of ground, including the harms of illegal immigration. But the most pressing topic was the threat of nuclear war. Interestingly, Trump said the largest threat of global nuclear war comes not from Russia or China, but from within.
