Council of Councils: CFR Deep State Convenes Latest Globalist Confab on “World Order”

The Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) is holding its latest Council Of Councils (COC) gathering in Washington, D.C., hosting “opinion leaders” from the arenas of politics, finance, media, academia, and think tanks to grapple with “global governance” issues. The three-day event, the COC’s eighth annual conference, brings together globalist elites representing 29 of the CFR’s sister organizations in 24 countries.

The participants in the CFR/COC palaver, according to the organization’s announcement, will be discussing five major themes:

- What Should the Future World Order Look Like?
- Managing Global Catastrophic Risk: Nuclear Weapons Confronting the Challenges of a Rapidly Urbanizing World
- How Do We Ensure Freedom has a Future?
- Multilateral Responses to a Planetary Environmental Crisis
- Multilateral Conflict Management: Yemen

That official, vanilla-flavored description provided above may appear sufficiently anodyne to camouflage a more sinister agenda, but veteran Deep State watchers will not be fooled. The CFR/COC confabs have become increasingly important venues for coordinating the globalist roadmap to their oft-proclaimed New World Order, particularly as it pertains to operations of the G20 (Group of 20) nations. The CFR/COC website specifically makes this connection to the G20 on its website. “The membership of the Council of Councils includes leading institutions from twenty-four countries, roughly tracking the composition of the Group of Twenty (G20),” the COC website states. “The network facilitates candid, not-for-attribution dialogue and consensus-building among influential opinion leaders from established and emerging nations.”

“The Council of Councils is a CFR initiative connecting leading foreign policy institutes from around the world in a common conversation on issues of global governance and multilateral cooperation,” the organization declares, noting further, “The Council of Councils draws on the best thinking from around the world to find common ground on shared threats, build support for innovative ideas, and introduce remedies into the public debate and policymaking processes of member countries.”

The following is the official list of the COC member institutes that, supposedly, are providing “the best thinking from around the world” for shaping global governance:

Australia: Lowy Institute

United Kingdom: International Institute for Strategic Studies (IISS)

United States: Council on Foreign Relations (CFR)

The Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) and Chatham House (RIIA), of course, jointly rank head and shoulders above their sister organizations in the COC. Following their failure to seduce the American people and the U.S. Senate into approving U.S. membership in the League of Nations nearly a century ago, leading advocates for world government in Britain and the United States launched the CFR and RIIA to infiltrate their members into the corridors of political power, while at the same time targeting key media organizations and academic institutions for takeover as internationalist propaganda platforms. With the backing of the Rhodes, Rockefeller, Rothschild, and Morgan fortunes (to which would be added the Carnegie, Ford, Soros, Gates, Hewlett, Packard, and MacArthur fortunes — and more) the organized one-worlders have been phenomenally, diabolically successful. This century-long march toward “world order” has been thoroughly chronicled in James Perloff’s classic book The Shadows of Power: The Council on Foreign Relations and the American Decline, and more recently in Arthur S. Thompson's In the Shadows of the Deep State: A Century of Council on Foreign Relations Scheming for World Government, as well as in numerous articles on this site (see, for example, here, here, and here).

The Swiss Propaganda Research group (SPR) has produced several revealing charts showing the extensive influence and control exercised by the CFR through its members in the federal government and the media over the past several decades (see here, here, and here).

The CFR also announced that on Tuesday, May 7, it will release its fifth annual Council of Councils Report Card on International Cooperation. In CFR/COC parlance, "international cooperation" always translates into global controls aimed at restricting (and ultimately destroying) national sovereignty in their drive toward world government. Last year's release of the CFR/COC's fourth Report Card can be viewed on the video below.

The CFR/COC also produces "Global Governance Working Papers," such as its recent paper entitled Domesticating the Giant: The Global Governance of Migration, in support of the United Nations' Global Compact for Migration, and "Global Memos," such as the one entitled Planet Earth Takes Center Stage in 2019 Global Summits, promoting the UN's Paris Climate Agreement and the UN's Sustainable Development Goals.

The assembled globalists at the CFR/COC conference comprise an important part of the congregation of the one-world faithful that includes not only top-level government officials, but also the "sherpas" who guide them at international summits and conferences. They have made it clear that their top priority is stopping the slide toward nationalism led by President Donald Trump and other national leaders and movements that threaten the "global order" assiduously constructed by the organized one-worlders over the past century.
