

UN “Summit of the Future” to Prescribe a Big Glob of Globalism for Future Generations

The United Nations’ appetite for multilateralism, UN speak for globalism, is never satisfied. In fact, it is likened to a black hole, endlessly absorbing mass with a gravitational pull so strong that even light itself cannot escape its grip.

In their latest scheme to swallow up the sovereignty of nations in their behemoth gullet, the United Nations is planning a “Summit of the Future” to take place in New York City on September 22-23, 2024, to cement their agenda of globalism for centuries.

“The Summit of the Future is a once-in-a-generation opportunity to enhance cooperation on critical challenges and address gaps in global governance,” the UN website reveals, as well as to “reaffirm existing commitments including to the Sustainable Development Goals and the United Nations Charter, and move towards a reinvigorated multilateral [globalist] system that is better positioned to positively impact people’s lives.”

The United Nations has laid out a very ambitious agenda for this summit and, if they are successful, the United States will lose even more sovereignty, liberty, and strength. It is high time to exit this abomination of an organization and for Americans to work together to educate one another and expose the United Nations for the monster that it is.

The Agenda

Some of the aggressive goals for the “Summit of the Future” include global pandemic and vaccine response and distribution plans, transforming education, and even upgrading and expanding the United Nations into “UN 2.0.”

António Guterres, the secretary-general of the United Nations and former leader of the Socialist Party of Portugal and Socialist International, laid out 11 “Areas of Potential Action” for the summit, as well as a report going into further detail of his very motivated globalist ploys.

On the heels of three years’ worth of government gangsters groping for power through the Covid-19 “crisis” and forcing untested vaccines on the world, Guterres is calling for the creation of a “Futures Lab.” This lab would “work with partners including governments, academia, civil society, and the private sector, to issue regular reports on megatrends and catastrophic risks.”

Guterres’ lab would work to help prepare the global community for the next ushered-in crisis and to ensure countries are “sharing vaccines equitably.” Under the guise of benevolence this may seem prudent, but it is a calculated effort to transfer the choices of nations to the hands of a leviathan global community that is convinced that nations and the people therein are too dumb to think and do for themselves. Therefore, the UN sees itself as the world’s referee to call balls and strikes to make sure nations play nice together.

Perhaps the most frightening agenda item for the “Summit of the Future” is its ambition to transform education. Action item 11 states, “Transform education: achieve a fundamental shift in how education is seen and treated including in relation to the purpose of education; the learning environment; the teaching profession; harnessing digital transformation; investing in education; and multilateral support for quality education for all.”

Unfortunately, the globalist cronies do not stop there with the perennial oozing of nonsense about education. On the UN’s Department of Economic and Social Affairs website, they reveal more of their diabolical future hopes for education to discuss at the summit, including proposing measures of “lifelong learning” for the next era of children, as if preschool through high school is not enough time to indoctrinate children with secular values.

Finally, Guterres proposes a “UN upgrade” to make “UN 2.0,” which includes a “more participatory and consultative approach, gender parity by 2028, the re-establishment of the Secretary-General’s Scientific Advisory Board, and a policy that puts people at the center of the UN System, taking into account age, gender and diversity,” according to the socialist secretary’s report. Guterres also wants to seek “improved participation of youth” in the UN.

The very notion of this summit and U.S. involvement in the UN is contrary to American interests because American citizens alone, at the local level, should decide independently and sovereignly their policy on health emergency response, education, and all other realms of civic action.

When the United Nations gets a say in how Americans live their lives, it robs us and the next generation of our birthright to be able to live as free people under our constitutional, self-governing republic.

Call to Action

In the midst of all this quackery, the United States’ sovereignty is a sitting duck. The United States of America must get out of the United Nations immediately and permanently — ideally, before this vile summit takes place in September 2024.

In his Farewell Address, George Washington, the first president of these United States, offered an ever-relevant admonition for Americans regarding global relationships: “’Tis our true policy to steer clear of permanent alliances, with any portion of the foreign world.”

Washington’s words are more important now than ever. Citizens should contact their representatives and relay our first president’s valuable advice, while also relentlessly working to educate others in their spheres of influence to get the U.S. out of the UN.

This is one of the biggest threats America faces, and time is running out.
